CURRENT INDEX TO STATISTICS: PRODUCT INFORMATION

The Current Index to Statistics (CIS) is a bibliographic index to publications in statistics and related fields. References are drawn from core journals that are fully indexed, non-core journals from which articles are selected that have statistical content, proceedings and edited books, and other sources. The index is searched by users through a Web page. The Current Index to Statistics is project of the Institute of Mathematical Statistics (IMS), with collaboration from the American Statistical Association (ASA).

The CIS Extended Database (CIS/ED) indexes

- the entire contents of 163 “core journals” (as of 2009, of which 111 have been “core” for at least 10 years), in most cases from 1975 (or first issue if later) to the current end year, and some pre-1975 coverage for a number of them,
- selected articles since 1975 from about 1800 additional journals (cumulatively), and
- about 11,000 books in statistics published since 1975.

Currently, the CIS/ED includes approximately 300,000 entries.

CIS/ED is available in several license categories.

- Personal member licenses are automatically available to all ASA and IMS members. Connect through the ASA web site, <http://www.amstat.org/membersonly>, or the IMS website, <http://www.imstat.org/secure/members>, using your member ID and password.
- Institutional and nonmember subscribers (license categories below) may obtain access for their users to the CIS query web site. No setup by the subscriber is required beyond providing a range of Internet addresses included in site. (Nonmember personal licenses are authenticated by password.) Web subscriptions are for one-year terms, and are renewable annually on the anniversary of the date of initial subscription.

License Categories for CIS/ED define the scope of users who may access the database. The following categories are available: Four-station license: Use from up to 4 workstations at a single site, only by users physically seated at those workstations. University license: Access for students and staff of a single university campus. General license: Use by employees of a corporation or agency at a single site. Commercial license: Employees of a single corporation or agency located at a single site or through password-protected access to computer system at that site. Write access@statindex.org for pricing of multisite corporate licenses. Personal license (nonmember): Use only by an individual licensee; authentication is by password through the sponsor web site. See <http://www.statindex.org/> for full license text and descriptions.
